THE ROLE OF THE ARTS IN DANA POINT IN A CHANGING ECONOMY

We want to hear from you. The City of Dana Point and the Dana Point Arts and Culture Commission would like to invite local artists to attend an open forum to discuss the role of the Arts in Dana Point in a changing economy. The meeting will be on Wednesday April 16, 2014 starting at 6:00 p.m. in the Dana Point City Council Chambers, 33282 Golden Lantern Road, Dana Point.

The focus of the open discussion is to explore ways in which the arts can be an integral part of the community. Some key areas could be the exploration of partnership opportunities with foundations, businesses, schools, and governmental entities. The group will also identify possible funding sources for the arts in Dana Point.

Through an open dialogue with professional artists, art enthusiasts, local non-profits, stakeholders, and involved residents, the Commission will consolidate the information collected and formulate an action plan for future consideration.
