Please join us to hear Josh Weinik teach us about the fascinating world of our local shorebirds, notably the Western Snowy Plover. Josh works for the City of Newport Beach and the Audubon Society; he spends a lot of his time monitoring the “Federally Threatened” Western Snowy Plover, which can be found on our beaches. Josh will discuss the plovers role in its ecosystem and how our local beaches are essential for this species persistence here. Great for adults and kids alike (we will have some hands-on displays for kids to interact with!).
