Please join us while Justin Viezbicke teaches us about the California Sea Lion and why we have been seeing so many strandings over the past several years. Justin works for NOAA (National Oceanographic and Atmospheric Administration) as a Marine Biologist and is also the California “Stranding Coordinator.” Justin will discuss the California Sea Lion’s role in the ecosystem, as well as the many variables associated with their health and population trends. Great for adults and kids alike (we will have some hands-on displays for kids to interact with!).
